

Name: Rossarin Gray

Rossarin Gray is an Associate Professor and currently Senior Advisor at the Institute for Population and Social Research (IPSR), Mahidol University, Thailand. She was the Director of IPSR during 2016-2020 and the Executive Secretary of Asian Population Association (APA) during the same period. She used to work at National Statistical Office, Thailand for many years and served as the Director of Social Statistics Division during 1999-2001. She received her BSc in Statistics from Kasetsart University, Thailand and her MA and Ph.D. in Demography from the Australian National University, Australia in 1995. She specializes in conducting survey and census on population and social issues and their data analysis. She has written a number of papers published in national and international journals in the fields of fertility, subjective well-being (happiness and life satisfaction), food related behaviors and food security.